

Professional Certification Programs

Continuing Professional Development

To maintain an active certification status, CRRP designees must follow maintenance requirements that demonstrate continued use and reinforcement of knowledge as well as current industry best practices. ICSC designees must accumulate a minimum of 10 ICSC-approved credits within a three-year period. These credits can be earned through a wide variety of methods including continuing education, industry service and professional recognition activities.

Activities may be offered by ICSC, related industry organizations or the designee’s employer. If you are unsure as to whether or not an activity or item will qualify, please contact certification@icsc.com.

Frequently Asked Questions

Where can I see my ICSC credits?	Under your ICSC Profile: Click My ICSC and the Payment History link will show your past transactions and corresponding credits.
I volunteer in several areas with ICSC, including committees, speaking events, etc. Why aren't those listed on my profile?	Our credit tracking is currently synced with your transaction history, so we are not able to track items that are not associated with a registration. We recommend you track this information on your end so you can include it at the time of renewal.
What if I am not able to attend ICSC events or programs in person?	You are not required to earn credits through ICSC activity. Designees earning all of their credits solely through outside organizations are still eligible to renew. ICSC also offers webinars that are free to our members.
Can I apply continuing education earned through other designations and/or licensures to my ICSC certification renewal credits?	Of course! Just be sure to review this information with the Certification team so we can decipher how many credits each item may be worth.
I do not have enough credits. Should I just disregard communications about my renewal?	Absolutely not. Before any official deduction is made, please contact the Certification team to thoroughly review your personal status.
I am retired but I want to keep my credentials. How do I do that?	We are happy to waive the credit requirement for our retired designees, so long as their profile officially reflects a 'Retired' status. Please note, a renewal application is still required.
Is there a fee to renew my credential?	Yes—there is a flat fee of $125 to renew your designation for another 3 years. Designees holding multiple designations will only pay $125, regardless of the number of credentials they hold.
If I miss the deadline to renew, will I lose my certification?	Designees are encouraged to submit their renewal applications before the deadline. ICSC will review late submissions on a case-by-case basis.
I have more than 10 credits. Do I need to do anything?	Yes—designees holding 10 or more credits through ICSC event participation must complete the online renewal application. However, the professional development worksheet and supporting documentation are not required. The renewal fee of $125 still applies.
What should I do if I have more than 10 credits, but they're not all from ICSC?	Designees holding 10 or more credits from multiple sources are still required to complete the online renewal application and professional development worksheet. Supporting documentation is required for any non-ICSC activity and the renewal fee of $125 still applies.

Certified Retail Real Estate Professional (CRRP) Professional Development Worksheet

Use the worksheet below to document a minimum of 10 professional development credits earned for continuing education, industry service and professional recognition activities. Professional development activities can be sponsored by ICSC or by third parties such as your employer, educational institution, or other related industry organizations. Documentation may be requested for non-ICSC related programs on a case-by-case basis. Keep this document on file until it is time to renew. We do not accept documentation prior the submission dates we will share closer to the time of your renewal.

All ICSC Certified professionals are required to demonstrate continued competence and active industry engagement through professional development by renewing their credentials (recertification). Every designee is assigned a 3-year certification maintenance interval that starts the same year that the initial certification was granted and begins again every three years, unless otherwise stated. All activities must be completed within your eligibility period.
